Safety Planning when Self Isolating

Always keep your mobile phone charged and with you.

If it is a pay as you go phone, make sure you have always have enough credit to call for help if you need it.

Have a CODE word with your family and/or friends

Talk about what to do if you use it. Do they come and get you? Do they call the police?

Have a CODE word with your children.

Tell them where to go if you use it, run to a specific neighbor, go to the end of the street, etc.

Have an escape plan. Think about where you might go in an emergency.

Are there neighbours you could trust? Keep your car keys and bank card in a place that you can grab them easily.

Think about the safest routes in and out of your house.

Keep with you any important and emergency telephone numbers

Try to keep a small amount of money on you at all times.

Enough change for a taxi or bus fare.

If you suspect that your partner is about to attack you, try to go to a lower risk area of the house.

An area where there is a way out and access to a phone. Avoid the kitchen or garage where there are likely to be knives or other weapons. If you have to lock yourself in a room try to push a wedge under the door.

Be prepared to leave the house in an emergency.

Know where your car keys are. If you can, bring your passport or other important documents with you when you leave.

Covid-19 or the Coronavirus is creating a lot of fear and uncertainty across the world. Being stuck in the house with your abuser whilst having to isolate due to the virus is creating a potentially dangerous situation. A safety plan can lower your risk of harm and abuse - you can't control your partner but you can take action to reduce risk or avoid risky situations.

SAFETY TIP

- 1 Try and keep a mobile phone with you at all times if possible.
- 2 Ensure that you keep your phone charged.

The police are a key service when in immediate danger. Do not be afraid to call 999 in an emergency.

Make Yourself Heard

In danger, need the police, but can't speak?

- 1 Dial 999
- 2 Listen to the questions from the 999 operator
- 3 Respond by coughing or tapping the handset if you can
- 4 If prompted, press 55
This lets the 999 call operator know it's a genuine emergency and you'll be put through to the police.

Well-being tips for parents with teenagers at home during the Covid-19 outbreak

DON'T PUT TOO MUCH PRESSURE ON YOURSELF - You don't have to take on the teacher's role and enforce a rigid timetable. Encourage some structure and agree on this. You are there to help and support them with the work set by their teachers.

TRY NOT TO WORRY - about things you cannot control or change. Rather, focus on what you CAN do. Look to the future and set some goals together.

DON'T BE TOO HARD ON THEM - It is normal for your teenagers to feel upset, angry and unmotivated at this time. Try to be understanding of this encourage them to focus on the positives.

GIVE THEM A PURPOSE - Use this time to learn to live together as adults and prepare your teenager for the next stage of their life. Teach them a recipe and challenge them to cook for the family. Encourage them to get creative and stay active.

BE HONEST & HAVE FUN - You don't have all the answers. Face things together as a family. Stay up-to-date with what is happening but don't let it take over your thoughts. Make time for family fun!

For all parents a small act of kindness from us to you to help you and your children during these challenging times.

Mywellread.com is a free website with great stories and conversations for 8-11 year olds that'll help you look after their emotional health & wellbeing.

Arts Care Announces the Launch of their new Arts, Health and Well-being Online Workshop YouTube Channel, 'Arts Care 4U,' Wed 1st April 2020.

The Arts Care 4U channel has been inspired by Service Users and Healthcare Staff across Northern Ireland in response to the impact of COVID-19 Virus.

Our Artists and Clowndoctors at this time are unable to carry out their weekly arts delivery on wards and healthcare facilities so we are providing a new online series of Arts Workshops and Clowndocor Visits for everyone to access and participate in.

Connect with Arts Care from your home, ward or healthcare facility and join us in our free online series of Visual Art, Dance, Music, Storytelling, Creative Writing and Photography Workshops.

Things to Do:

- Participate in our arts workshops
- Learn new skills such as printing and felting with some of Ireland's leading artists
- Keep physically fit by participating in our 'dance for health' workshops
- Engage in music-making
- Listen to our storytellers
- Children enjoy meeting our clowndoctors
- Visit our online Art Gallery and look out for special guest appearances

Look forward to you joining us.

Covid 19 – Coronavirus Advice & Support

Don't take risks with a sick child

- If your child is unwell and you are worried contact your GP.
- If you think your child is seriously ill you should take them to the nearest Emergency Department. Ring ahead if they have a respiratory condition.

Our GPs and most Emergency Departments are still open for business and are ready to care for sick children.

You can still help.

While there is so much uncertainty about the future, society, jobs, health and livelihoods, it is important to remember that there are still many out there helping those in your region, community, neighbourhood and family that need help.

Our colleagues in BCM's Parents' Support Project are working – today - with families that are struggling to cope with bills, housing issues, ill health both physical and mental, domestic abuse, poverty and unemployment.

HOW CAN YOU HELP?
You can call Joanne at the Parents' Support project in Armagh/Dungannon directly on 07789518785 or donate via www.belfastcentralmission.org

We are working relentlessly to ensure these families have heat, light and food to feed their children. With ours being an essential service we also need PPE to keep our workers and these families safe from infection.

We know these are uncertain times for everyone, but if you are in self-isolation, you can still help. You can donate essential healthcare or sanitary items for the families or you can donate financially that we can ensure they have what they need to get through this. Thank you.

Many of these families have parents that will have been laid off as a result of this pandemic, who will have to wait up to six weeks for money and are in extreme financial difficulty.

Regardless of the size or type of organisation you work for, it's important to understand why you might be vulnerable to cyber attack, and how to defend yourself. The advice summarised below is applicable to your working life and your home life. You should also familiarise yourself with any cyber security policies and practices that your organisation has already put in place.

Who is behind cyber attacks?

Online criminals

Are really good at identifying what can be monetised, for example stealing and selling sensitive data, or holding systems and information to ransom.

Foreign governments

Generally interested in accessing really sensitive or valuable information that may give them a strategic or political advantage.

Hackers

Individuals with varying degrees of expertise, often acting in an untargeted way – perhaps to test their own skills or cause disruption for the sake of it.

Political activists

Out to prove a point for political or ideological reasons, perhaps to expose or discredit your organisation's activities.

Terrorists

Interested in spreading propaganda and disruption activities, they generally have less technical capabilities.

Malicious insiders

Use their access to an organisation's data or networks to conduct malicious activity, such as stealing sensitive information to share with competitors.

Honest mistakes

Sometimes staff, with the best of intentions just make a mistake, for example by emailing something sensitive to the wrong email address.

© Crown Copyright 2018

Defend against phishing attacks

Phishing emails appear genuine, but are actually fake. They might try and trick you into revealing sensitive information, or contain links to a malicious website or an infected attachment.

Phishers use publicly available information about you to make their emails appear convincing. Review your privacy settings, and think about what you post.

Know the techniques that phishers use in emails. This can include urgency or authority cues that pressure you to act.

Phishers often seek to exploit 'normal' business communications and processes. Make sure you know your organisation's policies and processes to make it easier to spot unusual activity.

Anybody might click on a phishing email at some point. If you do, tell someone immediately to reduce the potential harm caused.

Secure your devices

The smartphones, tablets, laptops or desktop computers that you use can be exploited both remotely and physically, but you can protect them from many common attacks.

Don't ignore software updates - they contain patches that keep your device secure. Your organisation may manage updates, but if you're prompted to install any, make sure you do.

Always lock your device when you're not using it. Use a PIN, password, or fingerprint/face id. This will make it harder for an attacker to exploit a device if it is left unlocked, lost or stolen.

Avoid downloading dodgy apps. Only use official app stores (like Google Play or the Apple App Store), which provide some protection from viruses. Don't download apps from unknown vendors and sources.

Use strong passwords

Attackers will try the most common passwords (e.g. password1), or use publicly available information to try and access your accounts. If successful, they can use this same password to access your other accounts.

Create a strong and memorable password for important accounts, such as by using three random words. Avoid using predictable passwords, such as dates, family and pet names.

Use a separate password for your work account. If an online account gets compromised, you don't want the attacker to also know your work password.

If you write your passwords down, store them securely away from your device. Never reveal your password to anyone; your IT team or other provider will be able to reset it if necessary.

Use two factor authentication (2FA) for important websites like banking and email, if you're given the option. 2FA provides a way of 'double checking' that you really are the person you are claiming to be when you're using online services.

If in doubt, call it out

Reporting incidents promptly - usually to your IT team or line manager - can massively reduce the potential harm caused by cyber incidents.

Cyber attacks can be difficult to spot, so don't hesitate to ask for further guidance or support when something feels suspicious or unusual.

Report attacks as soon as possible - don't assume that someone else will do it. Even if you've done something (such as clicked on a bad link), always report what's happened.

Don't be afraid to challenge policies or processes that make your job difficult. Security that gets in the way of people doing their jobs, doesn't work.
